

Davey Garland is a long time activist in the radical environmental/labour and peace movement having got into the DU issue back in 1999, when he was researching his MA (Peace studies); thesis on the ecological effects of the Kosovo conflict. He set up the Pandora DU Research Project, in 2001; which established an international networking and information providing tool for the anti-DU movement. He is currently finishing his Mphil thesis on the strategies of the anti-DU movement, and begins his Phd in the fall, looking at Media censorship over the gulf war. He teaches a university course in "alternative media"; and has produced a few articles, most notably.